Policies appropriate to the north make little sense for the south and vice versa. We need to take action responsibly based on the understanding that what we do today can have implications on the lives of people and the planet in future. Yet, attempts to simplify what, by its very nature is not simple, may result in further confusion and misunderstandings and, ultimately, in lack of credibility.

That is both valuable knowledge in itself and, if need be, a basis for moving on. Instead of tinkering around the edges of the market with new products and services, business must now transform it. Inherent in the concept of sustainability is the vision of a more equitable world.

New conceptions of government engagement Very few business schools offer courses will you have at the end?
